THE HUMANITIES

In the act that established the National Endowment for the Humanities, the term humanities includes, but is not limited to, the study of the following disciplines: history; philosophy; languages; linguistics; literature; archaeology; jurisprudence; the history, theory, and criticism of the arts; ethics; comparative religion; and those aspects of the social sciences that employ historical or philosophical approaches.

PURPOSE AND SCOPE

Through its Fellowships and Summer Stipends programs, NEH provides opportunities for individuals to pursue advanced work in disciplines of the humanities. Projects proposed for support may contribute to scholarly knowledge or to the general public's understanding of the humanities, and they may address broad topics or consist of research and study in single fields of the humanities. The Fellowships and Summer Stipends programs are designed to support faculty and staff members of schools, colleges, and universities; scholars and writers working in institutions with research or educational collections, such as museums, libraries, and historical societies; scholars and writers working in institutions with no connection to the humanities; and scholars and writers working independently. Grantees in the Fellowships and Summer Stipends programs are free to hold other major grants or fellowships concurrently with the NEH award. Persons who have held a major research grant or its equivalent during the 1999-2000 academic year or during subsequent academic years are ineligible for Summer Stipends. A "major fellowship or research grant" is a postdoctoral research award that provides a stipend of at least $10,000 and comes from sources other than the recipient's employing institution. Persons who have held such a major award are eligible for Fellowships and will receive the same consideration as other applicants during the evaluation process.

FOR THE HUMANITIES

NEH Summer Stipends

Application deadline October 1, 2001

NEH SUMMER STIPENDS SUPPORT
TWO MONTHS OF FULL-TIME WORK
ON PROJECTS THAT WILL MAKE A SIGNIFICANT CONTRIBUTION TO THE HUMANITIES.

In most cases, faculty members of colleges and universities in the United States must be nominated by their institutions for the Summer Stipends competition, and each of these institutions may nominate two applicants. One applicant should be a junior nominee holding the rank of instructor or assistant professor. Prospective applicants who will require nomination should acquaint themselves with the nomination procedures of their home institutions well before the October 1 application deadline. Individuals employed in non-teaching capacities in colleges and universities and individuals not affiliated with colleges and universities do not require nomination and may apply directly to the program. Adjunct faculty and academic applicants with appointments terminating by the summer of 2002 also may apply without nomination.

Application Deadline:
October 1, 2001

TENURE:

Tenure must cover two full and uninterrupted months and will normally be held between May 1, 2002, and September 30, 2002.

STIPEND:

$5,000

Inquiries: 202/606-8200

GENERAL ELIGIBILITY

Applicants need not have advanced degrees, but neither candidates for degrees nor persons seeking support for work toward a degree are eligible to apply for Fellowships and Summer Stipends.

Applicants should be U.S. citizens, native residents of U.S. jurisdictions, or foreign nationals who have been legal residents in the United States or its jurisdictions for at least the three years immediately preceding the application deadline.

SELECTION PROCEDURES

Evaluators consider the significance of the proposed project to the humanities, the quality of the applicant's work, the conception and description of the project, and the likelihood that the proposed work will be accomplished.
