to study humanities topics in a variety of Summer Seminars and Summer

National Endowment for the Humanities each year offers teachers opportunities

The Division of Research and Education Programs of the

1997 NEH SUMMER SEMINARS & INSTITUTES FOR SCHOOL TEACHERS

AMOUNT OF AWARD

Participants in Summer Institutes generally have their room, board, and supplies paid for by the project and receive an additional stipend. All teachers selected to participate in a Summer Seminar will be awarded a stipend of $2,450, $2,825, or $3,200 (depending on the length of the seminar) to cover travel costs to and from the seminar location, books and other research expenses, and living expenses. Additionally all Summer Seminar participants who teach in New Jersey will be awarded an additional travel stipend by the Geraldine R. Dodge Foundation of Morristown, New Jersey.

ELIGIBILITY

Full-time teachers in American K-12 schools, whether public, private, or church-affiliated, are eligible to apply to appropriate seminars and institutes. Americans teaching abroad are also eligible if a majority of the students they teach are American citizens. Librarians and school administrators may also be eligible. Applicants should consult the guidelines and application information received directly from seminar and institute directors concerning eligibility requirements. Selection committees are directed to give first consideration to applicants who have not participated in an NEH-supported seminar or institute in the last three years.

HOW TO APPLY

Please send or e-mail a request for application information and expanded project descriptions to the seminar and institute directors listed here. Information on any or all appropriate projects may be requested, but application may be made to only one seminar or institute. The application deadline for Summer Seminars and Institutes is March 1.

INFORMATION

Please direct all questions concerning individual seminars and institutes as well as all requests for application materials to the appropriate director. General questions concerning the National Endowment for the Humanities' Seminars and Institutes Program may be directed to 202/606-8463 or e-mail: research@neh.fed.us

EQUAL OPPORTUNITY

Summer Seminars & Institutes for School Teachers

Amount of Award

All teachers selected to participate in a seminar or institute will be awarded a stipend of $2,350, $2,800, $3,250, or $3,700 (depending on the length of the seminar or institute) to cover travel costs, books and other research expenses, and living expenses. Additionally all participants who teach in New Jersey will be awarded an additional travel stipend (from $250 to $1,000, depending on the location of the seminar or institute) by the Geraldine R. Dodge Foundation of Morristown, New Jersey.

Eligibility

Full-time teachers in American K-12 schools, whether public, private, or church-affiliated, are eligible to apply to appropriate seminars and institutes. Americans teaching abroad are also eligible if a majority of the students they teach are American citizens. Librarians and school administrators may also be eligible. Applicants should consult the guidelines and application information received directly from seminar and institute directors concerning eligibility requirements. Selection committees are directed to give first consideration to applicants who have not participated in an NEH-supported seminar or institute in the last three years.

How to Apply

Please send or e-mail a request for application information and expanded project descriptions to the seminar and institute directors listed here. When doing so, please include your regular mailing address since directors will send application material through the mail. You may request information about as many projects as you like, but you may apply to no more than one project. The application deadline is March 1, 2000.

Information

Please direct all questions concerning individual seminars and institutes as well as all requests for application materials to the appropriate director. General questions concerning the National Endowment for the Humanities' Seminars and Institutes Program may be directed to 202/606-8463 or e-mail: sem-inst@neh.gov
